Excerpt from Enforced Peace: Proceedings of the First Annual National Assemblage of the League to Enforce Peace, Washington, May 26-27, 1916 The largest and most distinguished gathering of a voluntary character that ever assembled in this city, so the Washington Star asserted, met in the Belasco Theatre in the Nations Capital on the morning of May 26, 1916. Its purpose, as announced in the language of the official call, was To devise and determine upon measures for giving effect to the proposals adopted at the conference held last June in Independence Hall, in Philadelphia, for a League of nations to Enforce Peace. The first annual national assemblage of the League to Enforce Peace was notable in many ways. The man who had been the twenty-seventh president of the United States, as president of the League, called the meeting to order and introduced the speakers. Another who had once been the Democratic candidate for the presidency was the vice-president of the League.
