

Judaism and World Order

Originally published in 1943, this book provides both valuable insights into the problems confronting Judaism at the end of the Second World War but also a solution towards peace for mankind in general. The book covers such subjects as why anything Jewish has suffered so much hatred which caused even a hatred of Christianity and the democratic way of life.

This is pertinent to the situation between Christians, Jews and Moslems today. The book is an appeal for the building of a Dienstvolk as the only alternative to a Herrenvolk. There may be lessons here also for the modern State of Israel which since then has become a fact and the dilemma of a people which are actually called as messengers of peace.
